MANCHESTER MAN CONVICTED OF FEDERAL CRACK COCAINE DISTRIBUTION CHARGES

Re: United States v. Garry Rice

Concord, New Hampshire -- United States Attorney Tom Colantuono, N.H. State Police Colonel Gary Sloper, and Manchester Police Chief Mark Driscoll announced that Garry Rice, date of birth of April 24, 1980, of Manchester, NH pleaded guilty to crack cocaine distribution and weapon possession charges.

RICE was arrested by Manchester and New Hampshire State Police officers on October 15, 2002, along with ten others, as part of their joint "Operation Beantown" investigation, so named because of its focus on alleged Boston-based drug traffickers that had relocated to Manchester. RICE's brother, Raheem Rice, was also arrested. His mother, Marleena Rice, has already entered a guilty plea to crack distribution charges.

RICE entered his guilty plea before U.S. District Judge Steven J. McAuliffe. The charges state that RICE distributed cocaine base, also known as "crack cocaine," in Manchester on August 8, 2002. Judge McAuliffe detained RICE without bail pending his sentencing hearing to scheduled during April, 2003 in the U.S. District Court in Concord. RICE faces a potential maximum sentence of 20 years imprisonment.

U.S. Attorney Colantuono stated, "This case demonstrates our Office's commitment to aggressively prosecuting drug traffickers, including the street-level crack dealers operating in Manchester and New Hampshire's other larger cities. Operation Beantown is a prime example of the effectiveness of cooperative efforts between federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies in combating the disastrous impact of crack cocaine on our urban neighborhoods and their residents. This Office will continue to commit federal resources to these efforts."

The conviction resulted from a joint investigation conducted by the Manchester Police Department's Special Investigations Unit and the N.H. State Police Narcotics Investigation Unit. The prosecution is being handled by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph N. Laplante.
